

LAUGHLIN'S LIFE SEEN AS EXAMPLE

First Citizen of Rush County Gave
Himself And Earthly Goods. But
Has Never Been Emulated

MEMORIAL TABLET UNVEILED

John A. Tittsworth, Dr. J. C. Sexton
And Judge Will M. Sparks Speak
at Ceremony Sunday

Formal and eloquent tribute to the memory of Dr. William B. Laughlin, first citizen of Rush county, marked the dedication of a bronze tablet bearing his name and a testimonial of his services to the community, on the court house lawn Sunday afternoon.

John A. Tittsworth, Dr. J. C. Sexton and Judge Will M. Sparks joined in praising the man who was the leading influence in the formation of Rush county and each drew a lesson from his life that was applicable to today, pointing out that people are judged not by their worth in dollars, but by what they have done for others.

Mr. Tittsworth also alluded to the unhappy fact that though Dr. Laughlin set an excellent example by giving himself and much of his earthly goods, it has never been emulated because no one had ever given anything to Rushville of Rush county.

Samuel L. Trabue presided at the dedication, which was held around the huge stone that forms a background for the tablet on the lawn a short distance east of the north entrance.

"We are gathered here to render honor to whom honor is due, especially to one pronounced as our first and most prominent citizen," said Mr. Trabue, in opening the meeting. He referred to the fact that the boulder came from the Bert Norris farm in Noble township, formerly the farm of Franklin Norris, a pioneer citizen of the county.

The dedicatory services were opened with a prayer by the Rev. Gibson Wilson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and the crowd of several hundred people gathered around the boulder joined in singing "America" under the leadership of Homer Cole. Fred A. Caldwell played the accompaniment on an organ.

Mr. Trabue announced that B. W. Riley, the oldest man in Rushville, who was on the program for a talk, would be unable to speak on account of his condition of health, but that he was present to participate in the ceremony.

Following the three addresses, the beautiful tablet was unveiled by little Miss Helen Julia Murphy of this city and little Miss Helen Louise Bittner of near Glenwood.

At the conclusion of the dedication, pictures of the memorial and of the five women who were responsible for it, were taken.

The women whose civic pride and community spirit was responsible for Dr. Laughlin's services to the county being recognized, are Mrs. Sarah Giffin, Mrs. George Murphy, Mrs. Margaret English, Mrs. William

DEATH IS DUE TO LOCKJAW

Harry Selby, Former Rush County
Man, Dies in Michigan

Harry Selby, aged 46 years, a former well known resident of southern part of Rush county, died at his home in Cold Water, Mich., Saturday afternoon of lockjaw, following an accident in which he received slight injury to one of his hands, five days before.

Besides the widow he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Howard Aussen and Miss Mary Selby, both of Cold Water, a brother, Ray Selby of Anderson township, half brother, Herschel Root of Letts Corner, and his mother, Mrs. Eph Root of Milroy.

Mr. Selby left this county sixteen years ago and was employed in the Kellogg Mills in Cold Water, Mich. Word was received by his relatives in this county Saturday of his death and Mr. and Mrs. Eph Root, Herschel Root and Ray Selby left immediately for Cold Water. The funeral services will be held there Tuesday.

SKIDS IN GRASS AND UPSLTS

Frank Comella's Car Is Damaged
But Occupants Are Unhurt

Frank Comella, local shoe repair man, and two companions escaped without a scratch Sunday afternoon when a Ford touring car driven by Comella upset west of Rushville while he was driving home from Carthage. The driver of the machine drove into the grass at the side of the road, it is understood, and the machine skidded and turned over.

The top was mashed, the glass in the windshield was broken and the frame bent, the front axle was badly twisted and the right front tire was punctured. The car belonged to Comella.

DEMANDS BENEFIT FROM INSURANCE

Alleging She Is Entitled To Be

FROM FATHER'S POLICY

Special Judge Sustains Motion To
Quash Indictment Against Capp
Miller—New One Drawn

A complaint for benefits from an insurance policy, demanding $2,500 judgment, has been filed in the circuit court by Mrs. Dean Travis, against her step-mother, Mrs. Mary C. Brown and the Modern Woodman of America, the action involving the insurance policy of the deceased, Samuel A. Brown.

The plaintiff, who is a daughter of the deceased, alleges that she is entitled to be the beneficiary of the $2,500 insurance policy payable by the Woodman lodge.

According to the allegations, the deceased had the policy payable to his first wife, and when she died, the beneficiary was never changed, and the daughter maintains that the policy should be paid to her, instead of the surviving widow, or her step-mother.

A representative of the insurance company stated today that according to the by-laws of the organization, the policies are payable to the widow, if any survive, unless the beneficiary is designated otherwise.

Judge Craig of Greensburg, special judge in the case of the State against Charles Capp Miller, charged with unlawful possession of a still, was here Saturday and sustained the motion to quash the indictment, after the question had been argued.

In sustaining the motion for the defense, the court ruled that he could not be discharged, and the state was granted permission to remedy which resulted in an affidavit being filed in three paragraphs, taking the place of the faulty indictment.

The case of David E. Teal against Regina Brummer, a complaint to foreclose a mechanics lien, in which $125 judgment is demanded, was heard Saturday by the court and the evidence was taken under advisement.

The petition of Effie Jane Curtis, asking that her name be changed was heard and granted, and her name had been changed to Effie Jane Weaver.

The case of Henry Miller against the P. C. C. & St. L. railroad, a damage suit involving a shipment of stock, has been dismissed by the plaintiff.

Another case has been dismissed in which Charles Cook was plaintiff and Sylvester Hinds, defendant, the complaint being a suit on a warranty.

FORMER COUNTY TREASURER DIES

John O. Williams, Age 74 Years. Expires At His Home In New Salem
This Morning

WAS A SUCCESSFUL FARMER

Native Of Noble Township Where He
Resided All Of His Life Except
Time In Office

John O. Williams, retired farmer, and formerly treasurer of Rush county, expired this morning at eight o'clock at his home in New Salem, death resulting from an illness of a little more than a week with a complication of liver ailments.

The deceased was a native of Noble township, and was born on a farm near New Salem, December 13, 1848, and was now in his 75th year. He received his education in the schools of that township, and then was employed as a farm hand.

For a number of years he rented farms on the shares, and it was not until after his marriage in 1879 to Oeda Matney, that he purchased 80 acres of land. His land holdings increased until he had an accumulation of 243 acres in Noble township, and he was regarded as a successful farmer and stock raiser.

The deceased was a member of the Christian church and politically he was a republican. In the fall of 1914 he was elected county treasurer, and served two terms in that office, from 1915 until 1919. During that period of time he lived in Rushville at 530 North Perkins street.

He also had rendered service to the public in other capacities, and was trustee of Noble township for five years and for some time prior in life he had been supervisor of the roads in his district.

After his retirement from public life, and from active farm life, he moved to New Salem, where his death took place.

The deceased is survived by the widow, and two children, Chester O. Williams of New Salem and Miss Ada Williams, who resided at home. Two brothers and four sisters also survive. They are James Williams of this city and William Williams of New Salem, Jennie Reed of Orange, Anna Williams and Margaret Stewart of Kansas. Three grand children also survive.

The funeral arrangements were not completed today and will be announced later.

MEETING OF THE STATE COMMITTEE POSTPONED

Republicans Will Not Meet Until Next
Monday to Reach Decision in Mc-
Cray Matter

MAY ASK HIM TO RESIGN

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24—The meeting of the republican state committee at which party leaders will decide whether to ask Governor McCray to consider his resignation as governor, because of personal financial reverses, has been postponed from Saturday until next Monday, October 1; it was announced today. In ordering the postponement, Clyde A. Wall, state chairman, explained that Postmaster General New would be unable to reach Indianapolis until Monday.

It is pointed out that the state committee has no more authority in the matter than any other group of citizens. If the affair comes to this point where the committee decides to ask McCray to quit, the request will be made on the ground of party expediency.

McCray's friends say he is not strong for the idea of letting party expediency rule in a case which he regards as a purely personal matter. They say his private misfortunes have no bearing on the state's business or his status as governor.

Activity at Republican headquarters is expected to be resumed tomorrow with the return of Clyde A. Wall, state chairman. Senator James E. Watson will arrive in Indianapolis later in the week to attend the meeting.

WARNS AGAINST ANY ASSEMBLAGE

Governor Walton Says Gathering of More Than Two Persons at Capitol Might Cause Trouble

RESPONSIBILITY ON MARKAM

Adjutant General of Oklahoma Expected to Prevent Meeting of The Legislature Wednesday

(By United Press)

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 24—Warning against assembling of "more than two persons" at the Oklahoma capitol, where the state legislature is scheduled to meet Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton, were issued by the executive today.

"It will not be safe for more than two persons to assemble in a group at the capitol—a 'wrong impression' might result in a serious situation," the governor said.

Walton announced he had turned the entire responsibility of preventing the legislature from meeting over to Adjutant General Markham, who is in charge of martial law enforcement in the governor's warfare on the Ku Klux Klan.

Oklahoma for the first time in two years has been free from flogging on an extended period since Governor J. C. Walton began his martial law program six weeks ago. Whippings had been almost nightly occurrences in some sections of the state, according to the governor's supporters.

But since the first troops were sent to Tulsa after the beating of Nate Hantaman, not one case of mob action has been reported by authorities.

The governor was apparently ready today to continue the military rule indefinitely. He announced that any time funds for maintenance of the troops were exhausted, the guard could "go out and get whatever it needed," indicating they would commandeer supplies and provisions. All Oklahoma waited expectantly for the attempt of the legislature called to meet on Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against Walton. The governor has announced he will treat the gatherings of legislators as "any other meeting of Ku Klux Klansmen" and order the military leaders to disperse and jail the members.

W. D. McBea of Duncan, chief agitator for a special impeachment session of the legislature, today made public a decision given him by

MRS. MILLER RETURNED HERE

Comes Back As Pastor On Petition
Of Congregation

The Rev. Emma Miller has returned to Rushville to act as pastor of the United Brethren church, due to the fact that the members of the congregation and other friends petitioned the district superintendent to have her returned here. Mrs. Miller was transferred to Greenfield at the conference at Columbus a few weeks ago, but her old congregation here insisted that she come back to Rushville and the church authorities consented.

Mrs. Miller has been pastor of the local church four years and under her leadership the congregation has grown and has erected a new house of worship at the corner of Sixth and Arthur streets.

MUSIC SUPERVISOR BEGINS DUTIES TODAY

Miss Gretchen R. Peterman of Laurium, Mich., Engaged For The Rushville Schools

GEORGE SMALL RESIGNED

Miss Gretchen R. Peterman of Laurium, Michigan, has been engaged as supervisor of music in the Rushville public schools and began her classes here today.

The schools have been without a teacher since the opening of the fall term two weeks ago today because George Small of Shelbyville, who was engaged during the summer for the work, was released from his contract when he was offered a similar position in Shelbyville, his home.

Miss Peterman is a graduate of the Columbia school of music at Chicago and had practice work in all of the grades of the Chicago schools for one and one-half years while taking her course in the teaching of music. New books for the music course have been ordered and will be here in a few days.

The Rushville school board released Mr. Small from his contract when he received the Shelbyville offer, after the supervisor of music there resigned. The board felt that although Mr. Small could be held to his contract, it would not be the best policy in view of his desire to teach in his home city.

TOLD RESISTANCE MUST BE GIVEN UP

Defense Organizations of Ruhr And
Rhineland Informed of Germany's
Plan to Capitulate

WITHOUT ANY CONDITIONS

(By United Press)

Berlin, Sept. 24—Chancellor Stresemann today informed the Ruhr and Rhineland defense organizations of the government's decision to capitulate to France.

Resistance must be given up without condition, the chancellor told the first delegates who visited him.

The fate of German citizens, expelled from the occupied areas, or imprisoned for obeying the government's orders for resistance, cannot be taken into consideration, Stresemann said.

However, the chancellor added, there is reason to believe that most of the Germans would be restored to their homes when official and public announcement of the decision to quit resistance is made.

Stresemann's statements to the delegates of the defense organizations completely confirmed the developments in the governments' attitude toward the resistance program as outlined exclusively in daily United Press dispatches since last Wednesday.

The chancellor was to make known the government's decision for conditional surrender to delegates of the remaining Ruhr and Rhineland organizations later this afternoon.

SHOWS POSITION ON FARM RELIEF

President Coolidge Indicates View
That Legislation Will Not Solve
Problems

FIRST PUBLIC UTTERANCE

Says America Will Remain Unencumbered by Spoils, Independent
And Unattached

(By United Press)

Washington, Sept. 24—In his first public speech since becoming president, President Coolidge today revealed his position upon two important policies—international affairs and farmer relief.

Speaking at the opening session of the American Red Cross convention, the president said: "That America will remain unencumbered by spoils, independent, unattached and unthought."

That the need of civilization is for an idealism that "does not seek to reform merely by an act of legislation, thinking that it can unload its burden on the government and be relieved from further efforts."

Mr. Coolidge declared that the world is coming more and more to rely on moral force and less on physical.

But ideals of human brotherhood and service "are idle dreams unless they can be translated to practical action," he said. "It is necessary on the one hand to avoid the illusions of the visionaries and on the other hand, the indifference of the selfish."

"Each individual and each nation owe their first duty to themselves." His reference to those who would remedy conditions by an act of legislation and thus escape further personal responsibility, was taken as a reference to those who are urging him to turn over to congress the farmers' problem for settlement.

"Each individual and each nation," he repeated, "must work out their own destiny."

President Coolidge today was the center of a spirited discussion among spokesmen for the American farmer, some of whom are demanding an immediate extra session of congress to aid agriculture, while others advise against it.

While Mr. Coolidge, according to all indications, was standing firmly with those who oppose an extra session until some specific remedy can be agreed on and passed, nevertheless was being put under strong pressure to change his attitude.

His administration has been threatened with defeat of some important legislation to be asked at the regular session unless he accedes to the demands to those who want congress called at once.

It is the president's first brush with members of congress. Thus

SEEN AS EXAMPLE

Young and Mrs. Will Dill, all of this city. They raised the money to pay for the memorial and arranged for its unveiling.

Dr. Sexton declared that Dr. Laughlin was really a great man, he having gained his impressions of the county's first citizen from traditions handed down through two generations and from writings.

"I envy no man the things I can take away from him," said Dr. Sexton. "When I envy a man who does his work so well people will erect a monument in his memory, I break no commandment in envying him his position."

Dr. Sexton said Dr. Laughlin was not a good doctor, because his time was taken up with other things, and no man can follow any branch of science successfully without giving his whole time to it.

"I offer no disparagement," he continued, "when I say he was a poor practitioner. He was primarily a teacher. He sat at the feet of a great teacher, Benjamin Rush, one of the greatest men of all times."

Dr. Sexton recalled that he organized the first medical society in eastern Indiana and spoke to the physicians.

"He had the power to teach, to build, to organize and accomplish things, and for that we give him our honor today," Dr. Sexton said in conclusion. "We honor him, a great teacher, who did his work, and he did it well."

Judge Sparks pointed out the "sad but true thing is we have waited almost 87 years" to honor Dr. Laughlin's memory. He commented that it was fortunate that a doctor was present at the birth of the county.

The speaker called attention to the fact that though he may not have been a great physician, Dr. Laughlin did not have the advantage in practicing medicine and law that the lawyers and physicians had today.

"This man in early life," he continued, "was a force in the community by reason of his skill in medicine, knowledge of law and mathematics, and his strong moral character. It is a peculiar thing when men do things that project them forward 87 to 100 years. It is not the law, or medicine or mathematics, but those things that are fundamental in your life and mine—moral fibre."

Judge Sparks said all honor should be paid to the woman who started the movement to recognize Dr. Laughlin.

"The true worth of a man, as shown by Dr. Laughlin, is what are you worth to the community," Judge Sparks asserted. "We can't continue to take things from the community and not put anything back."

"This man stood for the church, the state and the schools the hope of our land today. He had a heart that took in everyone. He did not leave much of an estate, but he left a memory that will live through the years to come. He had a tear for misery, he had a heart."

"We still honor such men as these, but isn't it a shame we allow men to do things and never honor them for 100 years. The blessed thing is that the good lives after him. If we live the things that Dr. Laughlin represented, then we can truthfully sing, 'America!'"

In reviewing the life of Dr. Laughlin, Mr. Tittsworth said:

There is no doubt that the name of the right man is engraved upon the face of the memorial tablet which is unveiled here today.

There may have been others in the past—there may be others in the future—who will deserve a memorial of some kind but there is no question today as to who is entitled to recognition now as the foremost citizen of Rushville and Rush county.

This too, though he has slept through the century just past in an obscure and unremembered resting place.

Until the Centennial observance of 1922, little was said or done toward honoring his name and memory.

Shakespeare says, "The evil men do lives after them, while the good is often interred with their bones."

It indeed seems in prophetic fulfillment of this poetic saying that much more has been written and said concerning the life and character of the murderer Swanson than in commemorating the achievements of its foremost citizen, Wm. B. Laughlin.

He was not a native Hoosier. In fact, harrington children, there were no native Hoosiers at the time, he came here, save those native Americans who had red skins, roamed the forests and lived in tepees.

He was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, December 17, 1778, and had little or no early education. He worked at the hatters trade for seven years, during which time he read and studied all he could, preparing himself for college.

He entered Jefferson College and for a period of six years, pursued studies, including courses in surveying, law, medicine and the liberal arts. He became a cultured gentleman.

Surveying at that time was almost a profession, Gen. Washington having practiced it in his youth.

He married Ruth McKinnan and they had a large family of fifteen children, of whom thirteen lived to maturity. There were seven sons and eight daughters. Their names and the dates of their birth and death are as follows:

1. Addison Laughlin—1802-1803.
2. Cicero Laughlin—1804-1826.
3. Harmony Laughlin—1805-1889.
4. Daraxa Laughlin—1807-1896.
5. Hypatia Laughlin—1808-1891.
6. Tullia Laughlin—1809-1838.
7. Aleustus Laughlin—1810-1864.
8. Livia Laughlin—1812-1892.
9. Sarah Laughlin—1814 (unknown)
10. Lucretia Laughlin—1815-1882.
11. Leonidas Laughlin—1817-1825.
12. Pantluea Laughlin—1818-1888.
13. Briceis Laughlin—1821-1823.
14. Barsina Laughlin—1823-1902.
15. Lycurgus Laughlin—1827-1849.

Of these seven were born in Pennsylvania, six surviving to go with their parents to Scott County, Kentucky in 1816. When they reached Rushville, the family consisted of the parents and thirteen children, which accounts for the record that their first house in Rush County was a large double cabin with a hallway in the center.

The father taught school in Kentucky for four years from 1812 to 1816, at which time they moved to Brookville, Indiana. Here he again taught for four more years, moving in 1820 to what afterwards became Rushville. At Brookville he had in his classes three boys named Ray, Wallace and Noble, who afterwards, each became governors of Indiana.

Their first cabin was built close to a large spring near the foot of Moran street. He built the first school at Rushville and taught it himself. It was located where the Red Men's hall now stands. Later in 1828, he built an academy, at his own expense, in which he taught as principal. The academy was located on ground just west of the I. & C. Traction building and north of Third street.

Two of the streets of Rushville, now Second and Third streets, were originally named after his daughters, Ruth and Elizabeth.

In the winter of 1821 Dr. Laughlin became a member of the legislature and attended the session at Corydon, then the capital of the state. During this session he secured legislation authorizing the formation of a new county, "west of Fayette and Franklin."

This county was to be eighteen miles east and west and twenty-three north and south. He afterwards, assisted by his sons, Cicero and Harmony, surveyed the new county. It had only six townships at first, named Union, Ripley, Noble, Washington, Richmond and Orange, which were afterwards subdivided by the board of county commissioners and increased to twelve in number.

The tract plat had originally been a part of Delaware county. Dr. Laughlin afterwards had the privilege of naming the new county and the county seat, which he called Rush County and Rushville in honor of his old preceptor, Dr. Benjamin Rush, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

He was a man of many activities, having engaged to a more or less extent in the pursuits of law, medicine, teaching, surveying and farming. His activities in the law consisted principally in serving a term as probate judge at Brookville and during a session of the legislature as a member thereof.

He may have followed the teaching profession, partly in recognition of the needs of his own large and rapidly growing family, but he made it his principal vocation in three places where he lived.

He owned probably about 320 acres of fertile, bottom land lying north and south of Flatrock. The 80 acres lying just west of Main street he purchased from the U. S. government for $1.25 per acre.

Out of this he gave 25 acres as a part of the original site of the city of Rushville. He reserved only one lot, that opposite the southwest corner of the public square for his own use. He was a leading spirit in all lines of progress.

Among his many achievements which entitle him to rank as the first citizen of Rushville and Rush county are:

1. He located Rushville.
2. He named the Town.
3. He built the first house in the Town.
4. He gave land for the site of the Town.
5. He built the first school in Rushville.
6. He taught the first school in Rushville.
7. He built the first academy.
8. He built the first mill.
9. He secured the legislation authorizing the formation of the county.
10. He surveyed the County.
11. He named the County.

He passed away January 1, 1837, having achieved a splendid career. The great service he rendered to the community stands unsurpassed to this day. In fact none has attempted to follow his example.

For during the period of almost a century that has passed since he wrought his deeds on earth, no one has given anything to Rushville or Rush county.

All honor to his name. May it remain graven upon the minds and hearts of this community as well as upon this memorial which we dedicate today.

VERY GOOD:—And God saw everything that He had made, and behold it was very good.—Genesis 1: 31.

The Laughlin Memorial

The thought that Dr. William B. Laughlin, first citizen of Rush county, gave himself as well as freely of this earthly possessions, that this commonwealth might come to its present high estate, was the principal one brought out by speakers at the unveiling of a tablet to his memory Sunday afternoon, also that Dr. Laughlin set a noble example of self sacrifice at the beginning of Rush county, and that it has never been emulated since.

There is much of this that Rush county people may take home for deliberate consideration. Although the father of fifteen children, Dr. Laughlin apparently had the welfare of Rush county first in his heart. He gave 25 acres as the nucleus of

IT HAPPENED IN RUSHVILLE

And Is Happening to Rushville People Every Week

The case told below is not an uncommon thing. The same occurs frequently and will continue to happen as long as folks have kidneys and overtax the kidneys.

Wm. Ash, 511 N. Sexton St., Rushville, says: "I can say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills for I have used them several times when my back has been lame and sore. My kidneys were weak and felt dull and heavy and the secretions were too free in passage. I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills which I purchased at Johnson & Company's Drug Store and they completely relieved me of the trouble. Another member of my family has also used Doan's and has found them very satisfactory."

a site for the county seat and he was the leader in building up the home, church and school, as well as the state, for it was his influence that caused Rush county to be organized.

Dr. Laughlin's life forms a splendid example that may be followed here and now. Although first in our community, he did not live a life that indicated he was out to get all that he could. He did not believe that he should receive and never give. His philosophy was that he should put back into the community more than he took out.

These are the kind of lives we need today—the unselfish kind that are willing to give, that do not feel they are entitled to all of the fruits of the land, that do not think that they should have all of the profit that the business will stand. The present age, as did that age, needs men who will stand before the community as a living example of unselfishness.

If the tribute to Dr. Laughlin's memory awakens some citizens to their responsibility, it will not have been in vain.

The Challenge to All

A worse menace than that for which we went to war now confronts us at home—

Indifference to law, the daily making of thieves and murderers, the breaking down of our social structure, license not liberty, indulgence not economy, carelessness not security.

Every young woman in war time, with tremendous zeal, helped the struggle. Her patriotism is needed even more than then.

Millions were subscribed by our business men to win the war. Long hours of work were given with $1 a year as the sole monetary reward for the most intense service. But we are now menaced at home, and a like devotion and a like labor are needed if life is to be at all worth living. The law of the jungle is replacing the laws of sanity and reason. The health, the morals, the very life and liberty of all are at stake.

Real patriotism is sincere service for the good of our country, which means service to fellow citizens more than to ourselves.

Every man and woman of influence in this country, for sheer safety's sake, must enlist their greatest efforts to uphold the law and solve the vexing problem.

Our people gave up thousands and millions to help Europe. Will they give up "a drink" for America? Society young women and matrons who see no wrong in a glass of wine or a cocktail ought to see that while the Eighteenth Amendment stands in our Constitution they are paying too great a price for the privilege of any alcoholic beverage. This is a time for the practice of true patriotism, to uphold our vital laws, to make sacrifices if need before the good of all.

It is the duty of every one to know the extent of the law's violations now and the pernicious effects and to give every ounce of energy to help save America from itself.

The degree team of the Modern Woodman will report for practice Tuesday night at 7 o'clock and all of the members are urged to attend. It also has been announced that the motion pictures of the log rolling held at the state camp July 4, at Lebanon, will be shown here at the Princess October 2, and several of the local members are in the picture.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO TODAY

From The Daily Republican Thursday, Sept., 24, 1908

Robert Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Anderson, who live south of this city, was slightly injured late Wednesday afternoon, when he collided with Pinnell & Tompkins lumber wagon. He was riding a bicycle and was unable to stop when the wagon turned the corner of First and Perkins Street. The front wheel of the wagon passed over his leg but the injury was an inconsequential one.

At the convention held this morning at Connersville by the Republicans of the senatorial district, composed of Rushville, Henry and Hancock counties, E. D. Moore of Connersville was nominated to succeed Elmer Binford, who was forced to withdraw from the race on account of ill health.

Will Frazee and W. J. Henley yesterday closed a deal for the sale of their farm of 308 acres east of this city. The farm was sold to John M. Ashcraft of Hancock county, who takes possession January 1. The consideration was $31,288, an average price of over $100 per acre.

Later, in attempting to back the same horse at the Graham school building, the wagon was run against a tree and up on the steps on the south entrance.

Giants Have Games At Cincinnati Today And Tuesday And Victories Will Clinch It

EVEN BREAK ALL THEY NEED

League Officials And Commission Will Meet Tuesday To Arrange For World's Series

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 24.—With the end of a very hard road they have been pounding all through the season in sight, the New York Giants have two chances today and tomorrow, to grab the few points that will virtually clinch the National League pennant.

With a lead of four games, the worlds champions of 1921 and 1922 will engage in a pair of games with the Reds in Cincinnati and if the New Yorkers show their established ability to do their best when it is most needed, they will leave the Ohio city with the pennant.

As it now stands, the Giants have to win only one half of their remaining games to cop the pennant even if the Reds should not suffer a defeat in their remaining six games.

If the Giants take both games from the Reds, they can not lose the pennant but if the Reds should pop out with one of their winning fits, the McGraw clan will be in a most serious situation.

While eight games remain on the schedule for the Giants, it is possible they will have to play only seven of them. One game is a postponed game with the St. Louis Cards and unless it becomes of vital importance in deciding the pennant, it is likely that the game will be cancelled.

Officials of the two leagues and the commission will meet tomorrow "some place in the east" to make arrangements for the series. The opening date, the scene of the first game and the scale of prices will be decided upon.

While there has been much demand for lower prices and some change in the method of selling tickets, it is unlikely that the magnets will agree to charge any less than last year and it is probable that the same system will be followed in selling the tickets.

Many complaints were voiced last season over the ticket arrangement which forced anyone desirous of a kets for the games in which the Giants or the Yankees were acting as the home club or six tickets for the whole series.

New Yorkers found it possible to form clubs and buy a set of the tickets, but visitors in the city who had only two or three days in which they could see the games experienced trouble in disposing of their extra tickets.

While the Giants are fighting it out to the end, the Yankees are taking it easy and pointing for the series. Miller Huggins, manager of the American League champions has advanced so far with his plans that he has announced tentatively that Sam Jones, the ace of the team, will pitch the first game.

PROFESSIONALS BEGIN PLAY

Qualifying Rounds For Golf Championship Opens at Pelham, N. Y.

Pelham County Club, Pelham N. Y. Sept. 24.—America's best professional golfers start the qualifying round for the championship of the professional golfers association here today. Sixty four players from all sections of the country are playing in the tournament. They are the survivors of the sectional qualifying rounds which were held this year.

Bobby Cruickshank who lost the open championship to Bobby Jones in a playoff for the title is the only prominent player entered in the championship. He failed to qualify when he had a bad off day during the trials.

The qualifying rounds today will be over 36 holes and will be started with a match between Gene Sarazen, the defending champion and Lloyd Gullickson of Columbus, Ohio. Fair weather prevailed this morning but the course was soft after a three days rain.

Uncle Sam Shares Fight Purse

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 24.—Many opportunities may be presented for Jack Dempsey to resume work late this fall and during the winter, but there is little chance that he will accept any offers to fight again until next year.

Dempsey, no doubt, is willing to fight semi-monthly if business should become that good, but there is a little question of economics that would make it highly unprofitable for him to work too much.

Some time ago several promoters went after Jack Kearns to sign Dempsey for a match with Harry Greb, the middleweight champion, for a late outdoor or an early indoor show, and Kearns refused to consider any purse.

Kearns said that Dempsey had earned all he was allowed to this year and he pointed out that the firm had reached the limit allowed by the law in his class and if they exceeded it they would have to pay about 60 percent of the purse money to the government in taxes.

Under the present conditions, Dempsey gets an awful socking by the revenue department every time he puts on the gloves. It sounds like a pipe to hear of Dempsey getting $200,000, $350,000 and $5,000,000 for a fight, but if the fans could see what is left for him when he is through splitting up with Kearns and the government, they would not be howling for congressional action to cut down the money that he is earning.

Out of a $300,000 purse, Dempsey has just about $100,000 for himself when he gets through whacking out the other ends of the money. Of course, $100,000 is not to be sneezed at, but it is not $300,000. The money that a heavyweight champion gets for the actual defense of his title is rather trivial, however, compared to the receipts from other sources of revenue that are opened by possession of the title.

It is understood that Dempsey's revenue averaged from $3,500 to $5,000 per week for three years. He earned a lot of money on the stage, in the movies and for the use of his name for advertising purposes.

Babe Ruth, it is said, got close to $10,000 royalties last year from a manufacturing firm who sold Babe Ruth caps. He got almost as much from the sale of suspenders, belts and baseball uniforms bearing his name and from the literary masterpieces turned out under his signature.

Dempsey's revenue from the same sources must have been much more, because the heavyweight champion is worth more in advertising even than the clout title of baseball.

Firpo, it is understood, made a half million dollars in seven months when he was fighting his way up to a championship bout with Dempsey. The South American, however, got practically every cent of his earnings for himself, however, as he has no manager. Dempsey and Kearns, it has been said, work fifty-fifty on everything.

Dempsey, however, should give Kearns a big split, as he would not have earned as much if he had been taking it all if he did have such a shrewd manager.

Kearns not only made the big purses possible for Dempsey, but he increased the scale of wages for every boxer in every division.

"Jack Kearns is the greatest manager that ever lived," Johnny Kilbane, the former featherweight champion, said at Shelby, before the Dempsey-Gibbons fight. "If he had not been persistent enough and game enough to brave criticism and force the promoters to give him real money, champions and the rest of the boxers would still be working for pork-and-bern wages. He argued that the fighters made the show and that they were entitled to make at least as much as the promoters and he got away with it."

Kilbane was crafty enough to do his own managing and Johnny Dundee, the present featherweight champion, has also handled himself for several years. It is argued that Dundee would have made much more money if he had someone to handle his affairs with a little more push.

WINS A SHUTOUT CONTEST

The Falmouth baseball team succumbed here Sunday afternoon before the Rushville club, which registered another shutout victory, winning 7 to 0.

The visiting team had several college stars in their line-up, but they could not bunch hits off of Yazel to put across runs, and the local players managed to get in several rallies and soon had the score piled up to 7 tallies. Rees pitched a good game for Falmouth.

The local club will play here again next Sunday and is scheduled to meet the New Palestine aggregation, which includes several fast players from Indianapolis.

FINAL PRACTICE IS HELD

Arlington Athletic Club Prepares For First Game Next Sunday

The Arlington Athletic Club held their final practice Sunday at the athletic field in Arlington, where they ran signals for two hours in preparation for their opening game next Sunday at Arlington with the Southpaw Club of Indianapolis, formerly the Marion Rambler team. These two teams played a 7 to 7 tie last year.

Arlington is not in as good condition as they should be, but they hope to be able to win Sunday's game. The probable line-up will be as follows: Thomas Wilcoxin, Updike and Alsop, guards; Captain Rohm and Kemp at tackles; Wilson and Winslow at ends; Woodruff, quarterback; Northam and Trischman at halves and Wicker at full, with Tony Wilcoxin, Lowell Headlee and Kenneth Wilcoxin held in reserve.

Mae Murray in "Jazzmania"

"Jazzmania" is the title of the latest photoplay in which Robert Z. Leonard will present Mae Murray, and in it the popular star has more opportunities for histrionic and costume display than has yet fallen to her lot in the pictures she has made. The new Metro photoplay is scheduled for presentation today and Tuesday at the Princess.

Miss Murray's new picture is partly a costume play. The star is seen as the Queen of a Balkan kingdom which is beset by enemies. A revolution is impending; and she flees to America. Her love of novelty makes her an ardent lover of jazz; and when a former subject advises her to return to her country to rescue the women and children who are being mistreated, she decides to go back. She rescues the kingdom and turns it into a republic, where jazz keeps Madame President and her subjects in good humor.

Of course there is a love story involved—more than one, as a matter of fact. With such a quartet of handsome actors as Rod La Rocque, Robert Frazer, Edward Burns and Jean Hersholt, Miss Murray will make more than one feminine heart beat with envy. And all are exceptionally fine actors, too.

The photoplay is based on a story by Edmund Goulding. It was produced by Tiffany Productions, Inc., of which Robert Z. Leonard is Di-

Women to attract must Radiate Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health—working silently—Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness—that beauty.

But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S., since 1826, has been ridding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks, scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

"The Bohemian Girl," Mystic

Spectacular moments abound in "The Bohemian Girl," the Harley-Knoles production which comes to the Mystic today and Tuesday with a cast of notables, comprising Ellen Terry, Ivor Novello, Gladys Cooper, Constance Collier, C. Aubrey Smith and a hundred others. The production is one of unusual magnitude.

Some of the "big scenes" are a gypsy encampment, a hunt breakfast in a superb old castle, a gorgeous costume ball, a picturesque European village fair and a score of other striking scenes. These have been reproduced with uncommon skill and fidelity to detail, and especially in the case of the castle scenes, an air of magnificent color and movement.

The story is a fascinating one and lends itself to atmospheric staging, as found in the gypsy scenes and the village fair. It concerns Arline daughter of an Austrian noble, who as a child is lured from her home by the gypsies to avenge a a fancied slight. One of their band is Thaddeus, a Polish youth who has been protected by the gypsies from the pursuing Austrian soldiers. As the years pass Thaddeus and Arline learn to love, yet the girl cannot believe that she is like all the rest, a gypsy, nor can she think of Thaddeus as belonging to the darkskinned tribe who love and fear their Queen.

It is Arline's dream or vision of a different life that comes upon the scene in a beautiful picture of the castle ball. Later this becomes a reality to her when she is restored to her father and her rightful place. "The Bohemian Girl" is a picturization of Balfe's famous old opera, in which such deathless airs as "I Dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls" and "The Heart Bowed Down" occur.

LAUGHLIN'S LIFE SEEN AS EXAMPLE

First Citizen of Rush County Gave
Himself And Earthly Goods, But
Has Never Been Emulated

MEMORIAL TABLET UNVEILED

John A. Tittsworth, Dr. J. C. Sexton
And Judge Will M. Sparks Speak
at Ceremony Sunday

Formal and eloquent tribute to the memory of Dr. William B. Laughlin, first citizen of Rush county, marked the dedication of a bronze tablet bearing his name and a testimonial of his services to the community, on the court house lawn Sunday afternoon.

John A. Tittsworth, Dr. J. C. Sexton and Judge Will M. Sparks joined in praising the man who was the leading influence in the formation of Rush county and each drew a lesson from his life that was applicable to today, pointing out that people are judged not by their worth in dollars, but by what they have done for others.

Mr. Tittsworth also alluded to the unhappy fact that though Dr. Laughlin set an excellent example by giving himself and much of his earthly goods, it has never been emulated because no one had ever given anything to Rushville of Rush county.

Samuel L. Traubne presided at the dedication, which was held around the huge stone that forms a background for the tablet on the lawn a short distance east of the north entrance.

"We are gathered here to render honor to whom honor is due, especially to one pronounced as our first and most prominent citizen," said Mr. Traubne, in opening the meeting. He referred to the fact that the boulder came from the Bert Norris farm in Noble township, formerly the farm of Franklin Norris, a pioneer citizen of the county.

The dedicatory services were opened with a prayer by the Rev. Gibson Wilson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and the crowd of several hundred people gathered around the boulder joined in singing "America" under the leadership of Homer Cole. Fred A. Caldwell played the accompaniment on an organ.

Mr. Traubne announced that B. W. Riley, the oldest man in Rushville, who was on the program for a talk, would be unable to speak on account of his condition of health, but that he was present to participate in the ceremony.

Following the three addresses, the beautiful tablet was unveiled by little Miss Helen Julia Murphy of this city and little Miss Helen Louise Bittner of near Glenwood.

At the conclusion of the dedication, pictures of the memorial and of the five women who were responsible for it, were taken.

The women whose civic pride and community spirit was responsible for Dr. Laughlin's services to the county being recognized, are Mrs. Sarah Giffin, Mrs. George Murphy, Mrs. Margaret English, Mrs. William

DEATH IS DUE TO LOCKJAW

Harry Selby, Former Rush County
Man, Dies in Michigan

Harry Selby, aged 46 years, a former well known resident of southern part of Rush county, died at his home in Cold Water, Mich., Saturday afternoon of lockjaw, following an accident in which he received slight injury to one of his hands, five days before.

Besides the widow he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Howard Ansdlen and Miss Mary Selby, both of Cold Water, a brother, Ray Selby of Anderson township, half brother, Herschel Root of Letts Corner, and his mother, Mrs. Eph Root of Milroy.

Mr. Selby left this county sixteen years ago and was employed in the Kellogg Mills in Cold Water, Mich. Word was received by his relatives in this county Saturday of his death and Mr. and Mrs. Eph Root, Herschel Root and Ray Selby left immediately for Cold Water. The funeral services will be held there Tuesday.

SKIDS IN GRASS AND UPSLTS

Frank Comella's Car Is Damaged
But Occupants Are Unhurt

Frank Comella, local shoe repair man, and two companions escaped without a scratch Sunday afternoon when a Ford touring car driven by Comella upset west of Rushville while he was driving home from Carthage. The driver of the machine drove into the grass at the side of the road, it is understood, and the machine skidded and turned over.

The top was mashed, the glass in the windshield was broken and the frame bent, the front axle was badly twisted and the right front tire was punctured. The car belonged to Comella.

DEMANDS BENEFIT FROM INSURANCE

Mrs. Dean Travis Sues Step-Mother,
Alleging She Is Entitled To Be
Beneficiary

FROM FATHER'S POLICY

Special Judge Sustains Motion To
Quash Indictment Against Capp
Miller—New One Drawn

A complaint for benefits from an insurance policy, demanding $2,500 judgment, has been filed in the circuit court by Mrs. Dean Travis, against her step-mother, Mrs. Mary C. Brown and the Modern Woodman of America, the action involving the insurance policy of the deceased, Samuel A. Brown.

The plaintiff, who is a daughter of the deceased, alleges that she is entitled to be the beneficiary of the $2,000 insurance policy payable by the Woodman lodge.

According to the allegations, the deceased had the policy payable to his first wife, and when she died, the beneficiary was never changed, and the daughter maintains that the policy should be paid to her, instead of the surviving widow, or her step-mother.

A representative of the insurance company stated today that according to the by-laws of the organization, the policies are payable to the widow, if any survive, unless the beneficiary is designated otherwise.

Judge Craig of Greensburg, special judge in the case of the State against Charles Capp Miller, charged with unlawful possession of a still, was here Saturday and sustained the motion to quash the indictment, after the question had been argued.

In sustaining the motion for the defense, the court ruled that he could not be discharged, and the state was granted permission to remedy which resulted in an affidavit being filed in three paragraphs, taking the place of the faulty indictment.

The case of David E. Teal against Regina Brummer, a complaint to foreclose a mechanics lien, in which $255 judgment is demanded, was heard Saturday by the court and the evidence was taken under advisement.

The petition of Ellie Jane Curtis, asking that her name be changed was heard and granted, and her name has been changed to Ellie Jane Weaver.

FORMER COUNTY TREASURER DIES

John O. Williams, Age 74 Years, Expires
At His Home In New Salem
This Morning

WAS A SUCCESSFUL FARMER

Native Of Noble Township Where He
Resided All Of His Life Except
Time In Office

John O. Williams, retired farmer, and formerly treasurer of Rush county, expired this morning at eight o'clock at his home in New Salem, death resulting from an illness of a little more than a week with a complication of liver ailments.

The deceased was a native of Noble township, and was born on a farm near New Salem, December 13, 1848, and was now in his 75th year. He received his education in the schools of that township, and then was employed as a farm hand.

For a number of years he rented farms on the shares, and it was not until after his marriage in 1879 to Ocie Matney, that he purchased 80 acres of land. His land holdings increased until he had an accumulation of 243 acres in Noble township, and he was regarded as a successful farmer and stock raiser.

The deceased was a member of the Christian church and politically he was a republican. In the fall of 1914 he was elected county treasurer, and served two terms in that office, from 1915 until 1919. During that period of time he lived in Rushville at 530 North Perkins street.

He also had rendered service to the public in other capacities, and was trustee of Noble township for five years and for some time prior to life he had been supervisor of the roads in his district.

After his retirement from public life, and from active farm life, he moved to New Salem, where his death took place.

The deceased is survived by the widow, and two children, Chester O. Williams of New Salem and Miss Ada Williams, who resided at home. Two brothers and four sisters also survive. They are James Williams of this city and William Williams of New Salem, Jennie Reed of Orange, Anna Williams and Amanda McKee of New Salem and Margaret Stewart of Kansas. Three grand children also survive.

The funeral arrangements were not completed today and will be announced later.

MEETING OF THE STATE COMMITTEE POSTPONED

Republicans Will Not Meet Until Next
Monday To Reach Decision In
McCray Matter

MAY ASK HIM TO RESIGN

(By United Press)
Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 24—The meeting of the republican state committee at which party leaders will decide whether to ask Governor McCray to consider his resignation as governor, because of personal financial reverses, has been postponed from Saturday until next Monday, October 1, it was announced today.

In ordering the postponement, Clyde A. Walls, state chairman, explained that Postmaster General New would be unable to reach Indianapolis until Monday.

It is pointed out that the state committee has no more authority in the matter than any other group of citizens. If the affair comes to the point where the committee decides to ask McCray to quit, the request will be made on the ground of party expediency.

McCray's friends say he is not strong for the idea of letting party expediency rule in a case which he regards as a purely personal matter. They say his private misfortunes have no bearing on the state's business or his status as governor.

Activity at Republican headquarters is expected to be resumed tomorrow with the return of Clyde A. Walls, state chairman. Senator James E. Watson will arrive in Indianapolis later in the week to attend the meeting.

WARNS AGAINST ANY ASSEMBLAGE

Governor Walton Says Gathering of
More Than Two Persons at Capital
Might Cause Trouble

RESPONSIBILITY ON MARKAM

Adjutant General of Oklahoma Expected to Prevent Meeting of The Legislature Wednesday

(By United Press)
Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 24—Warning against assembling of "more than two persons" at the Oklahoma capitol, where the state legislature is scheduled to meet Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against Governor J. C. Walton, were issued by the executive today.

"It will not be safe for more than two persons to assemble in a group at the capitol—a wrong impression might result in a serious situation," the governor said.

Walton announced he had turned the entire responsibility of preventing the legislature from meeting over to Adjutant General Markham, who is in charge of martial law enforcement in the governor's warfare on the Ku Klux Klan.

Oklahoma has been free from flooding for the first time in two years since the first time in two years. Governor Walton began his martial law program six weeks ago. Whipped by almost nightly pourings in some sections of the state, according to the governor's supporters. But since the first troops were sent to Tulsa after the beating of Nate Hantagan, not one case of mob action has been reported by authorities.

The governor was apparently ready today to continue the military rule indefinitely. He announced that the troops were exhausted, the guard could "go out and get whatever it needed," indicating they would commandeer supplies and provisions.

All Oklahoma waited expectantly for the attempt of the legislature called to meet on Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against Walton. The governor has announced he will treat the gatherings of legislators as "any other meeting of Ku Klux Klansmen" and order the military leaders to disperse and jail the members.

W. D. McBeo of Duncan, chief agitator for a special impeachment session of the legislature, today made public a decision given him by

MRS. MILLER RETURNED HERE

Comes Back As Pastor On Petition
Of Congregation

The Rev. Emma Miller has returned to Rushville to act as pastor of the United Brethren church, due to the fact that the members of the congregation and other friends petitioned the district superintendent to have her returned here. Mrs. Miller was transferred to Greenfield at the conference at Columbus a few weeks ago, but her old congregation here insisted that she come back to Rushville and the church authorities consented.

Mrs. Miller has been pastor of the local church four years and under her leadership the congregation has grown and has erected a new house of worship at the corner of Sixth and Arthur streets.

MUSIC SUPERVISOR BEGINS DUTIES TODAY

Miss Gretchen R. Peterman of Laurium, Mich., Engaged For The Rushville Schools

GEORGE SMALL RESIGNED

Miss Gretchen R. Peterman of Laurium, Michigan, has been engaged as supervisor of music in the Rushville public schools and began her classes here today.

The schools have been without a teacher since the opening of the fall term two weeks ago today because George Small of Shelbyville, who was engaged during the summer for the work, was released from his contract when he was offered a similar position in Shelbyville, his home.

Miss Peterman is a graduate of the Columbia school of music at Chicago and had practice work in all of the grades of the Chicago schools for one and one-half years while taking her course in the teaching of music. New books for the music course have been ordered and will be here in a few days.

The Rushville school board released Mr. Small from his contract when he received the Shelbyville offer, after the supervisor of music there resigned. The board felt that although Mr. Small would be held to his contract, it would not be the best policy in view of his desire to teach in his home city.

TOLD RESISTANCE MUST BE GIVEN UP

Defense Organizations of Ruhr And
Rhineland Informed of Germany's
Plan to Capitulate

WITHOUT ANY CONDITIONS

(By United Press)

Berlin, Sept. 24—Chancellor Stresemann today informed the Ruhr and Rhineland defense organizations of the government's decision to capitulate to France.

Resistance must be given up without condition, the chancellor told the first delegates who visited him.

The fate of German citizens expelled from the occupied areas, or imprisoned for obeying the government's orders for resistance, cannot be taken into consideration, Stresemann said.

However, the chancellor added, there is reason to believe that most of the Germans would be restored to their homes when official and public announcement of the decision to quit resistance is made.

Stresemann's statements to the delegates of the defense organizations completely confirmed the developments in the government's attitude toward the resistance program as outlined exclusively in daily United Press dispatches since last Wednesday.

The chancellor was to make known the government's decision for conditional surrender to delegates of the remaining Ruhr and Rhineland organizations later this afternoon.

SHOWS POSITION ON FARM RELIEF

President Coolidge Indicates View
That Legislation Will Not Solve
Problems

FIRST PUBLIC UTTERANCE

Says America Will Remain Un-
cumbered by Spoils, Independent
And Unattached

(By United Press)

Washington, Sept. 24—In his first public speech since becoming president, President Coolidge today revealed his position upon two important policies—international affairs and farmer relief.

Speaking at the opening session of the American Red Cross convention, the president said:

"That America will remain uncumbered by spoils, independent, unattached and unbought."

"That the need of civilization is for an idealism that 'does not seek to reform merely by an act of legislation, thinking that it can unload its burden on the government and be relieved from further efforts.'"

Mr. Coolidge declared that the world is coming more and more to rely on moral force and less on physical.

But ideals of human brotherhood and service "are idle dreams unless they can be translated to practical action," he said. "It is necessary on the one hand to avoid the illusions of the visionaries and on the other hand, the indifference of the selfish."

"Each individual and each nation owe their first duty to themselves."

His reference to those who would remedy conditions by an act of legislation and thus escape further personal responsibility, was taken as a reference to those who are urging him to turn over to congress the farmers' problem for settlement.

"Each individual and each nation," he repeated, "must work out their own destiny."

President Coolidge today was the center of a spirited discussion among spokesmen for the American farmer, some of whom are demanding an immediate extra session of congress to aid agriculture, while others advise against it.

While Mr. Coolidge, according to all indications, was standing firmly with those who oppose an extra session until some specific remedy can be agreed on and passed, nevertheless was being put under strong pressure to change his attitude.

His administration has been threatened with defeat of some important legislation to be asked at the regular session unless he accedes to the demands to those who want congress called at once.

It is the president's first brush with members of congress. Thus

Young and Mrs. Will Dill, all of this city. They raised the money to pay for the memorial and arranged for its unveiling.

Dr. Sexton declared that Dr. Laughlin was really a great man, he having gained his impressions of the county's first citizen from traditions handed down through two generations and from writings.

"I envy no man the things I can take away from him," said Dr. Sexton. "When I envy a man who does his work so well people will erect a monument in his memory. I break no commandment in envying him his position."

Dr. Sexton said Dr. Laughlin was not a good doctor, because his time was taken up with other things, and no man can follow any branch of science successfully without giving his whole time to it.

"I offer no disparagement," he continued, "when I say he was a poor practitioner. He was primarily a teacher. He sat at the feet of a great teacher, Benjamin Rush, one of the greatest men of all times."

Dr. Sexton recalled that he organized the first medical society in eastern Indiana and spoke to the physicians.

"He had the power to teach, to build, to organize and accomplish things, and for that we give him our honor today," Dr. Sexton said in conclusion. "We honor him, a great teacher, who did his work, and he did it well."

Judge Sparks pointed out the "sad but true thing" is we have waited almost 87 years to honor Dr. Laughlin's memory. He commented that it was fortunate that a doctor was present at the birth of the county.

The speaker called attention to the fact that though he may not have been a great physician, Dr. Laughlin did not have the advantage in practicing medicine and law that the lawyers and physicians had today.

"This man in early life," he continued, "was a force in the community by reason of his skill in medicine, knowledge of law and mathematics, and his strong moral character. It is a peculiar thing when men do things that project them forward 87 to 100 years. It is not the law, or medicine or mathematics, but those things that are fundamental in your life and mine—moral fibre."

Judge Sparks said the honor should be paid to the woman who started the movement to recognize Dr. Laughlin.

"The true worth of a man, as shown by Dr. Laughlin, is what are you worth to the community," Judge Sparks asserted. "We can't continue to take things from the community and not put anything back."

"This man stood for the church, the state and the schools the hope of our land today. He had a heart that took in everyone. He did not leave much of an estate, but he left a memory that will live through the years to come. He had a tear for misery, he had a heart."

"We still honor such men as these, but isn't it a shame we allow men to do things and never honor them for 100 years. The blessed thing is that the good lives after him. If we live the things that Dr. Laughlin represented, then we can truthfully sing, 'America.'"

In reviewing the life of Dr. Laughlin, Mr. Tittsworth said:

There is no doubt that the name of the right man is engraved upon the face of the memorial tablet which is unveiled here today.

There may have been others in the past—there may be others in the future—who will deserve a memorial of some kind but there is no question today as to who is entitled to recognition now as the foremost citizen of Rushville and Rush county.

This too, though he has slept through the century just past in an obscure and unhonored resting place. Until the Centennial observance of 1922, little was said or done toward honoring his name and memory.

Shakespeare says, "The evil men do lives after them, while the good is often interred with their bones."

It indeed seems in prophetic fulfillment of this poetic saying that much more has been written and said concerning the life and character of the murderer Swanson than in commemorating the achievements of its foremost citizen, Wm. B. Laughlin.

He was not a native Hoosier. In fact, having children, there were no native Hoosiers at the time, he came here, save those native Americans who had red skins, roamed the forests and lived in tepees.

He was born in Washington county, Pennsylvania, December 17, 1775. He had little or no early education. He worked at the hatters trade for seven years, during which time he read and studied all he could, preparing himself for college.

He entered Jefferson College and, for a period of six years, pursued studies, including courses in surveying, law, medicine and the liberal arts. He became a cultured gentleman.

Surveying at that time was almost a profession, Gen. Washington having practiced it in his youth.

He married Ruth McKinnan and they had a large family of fifteen children, of whom thirteen lived to maturity. There were seven sons and eight daughters. Their names and the dates of their birth and death are as follows:

1. Addison Laughlin—1802-1803.
2. Cicero Laughlin—1804-1826.
3. Harmony Laughlin—1805-1889.
4. Daraxa Laughlin—1807-1896.
5. Hypatia Laughlin—1808-1891.
6. Tullia Laughlin—1809-1838.
7. Alceus Laughlin—1810-1864.
8. Livia Laughlin—1812-1892.
9. Sarah Laughlin—1814-(unknown)
10. Lucretia Laughlin—1815-1882.
11. Leonidas Laughlin—1817-1825.
12. Pantiea Laughlin—1818-1838.
13. Briceis Laughlin—1821-1823.
14. Barsina Laughlin—1823-1902.
15. Lycurgus Laughlin—1827-1849.

Of these seven were born in Pennsylvania, six surviving to go with their parents to Scott County, Kentucky in 1816. When they reached Rushville, the family consisted of the parents and thirteen children, which accounts for the record that their first house in Rush County was a large double cabin with a hallway in the center.

The father taught school in Kentucky for four years from 1812 to 1816, at which time they moved to Brookville, Indiana. Here he again taught for four more years, moving in 1820 to what afterwards became Rushville. At Brookville he had in his classes three boys named Ray, Wallace and Noble, who afterwards, each became governors of Indiana.

Their first cabin was built close to a large spring near the foot of Morgan street. He built the first school in Rushville and taught it himself. It was located where the Red Men's hall now stands. Later in 1823, he built an academy, at his own expense, in which he taught as principal. The academy was located on ground just west of the I. & C. Traction building and north of Third street.

Two of the streets of Rushville, now Second and Third streets, were originally named after his daughters, Ruth and Elizabeth.

In the winter of 1821 Dr. Laughlin became a member of the legislature and attended the session at Corydon, then the capital of the state. During this session he secured legislation authorizing the formation of a new county, "west of Fayette and Franklin."

This county was to be eighteen miles east and west and twenty-three north and south. He afterward, assisted by his sons, Cicero and Harmony, surveyed the new county. It had only six townships at first, named Union, Ripley, Noble, Washington, Richland and Orange, which were afterwards subdivided by the board of county commissioners and increased to twelve in number.

The tract platted had originally been a part of Delaware county. Dr. Laughlin afterward had the privilege of naming the new county and the county seat, which he called Rush County and Rushville in honor of his old preceptor, Dr. Benjamin Rush, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

He was a man of many activities, having engaged to a more or less extent in the pursuits of law, medicine, teaching, surveying and farming. His activities in the law consisted principally in serving a term as probate judge at Brookville and during a session of the legislature as a member thereof.

He may have followed the teaching profession, partly in recognition of the needs of his own large and rapidly growing family, but he made it his principal vocation in three places where he lived.

He owned probably about 320 acres of fertile, bottom land lying north and south of Flatrock. The 80 acres lying just west of Main street he purchased from the U. S. government for $1.25 per acre.

Out of this he gave 25 acres as a part of the original site of the city of Rushville. He reserved only one lot, that opposite the southwest corner of the public square for his own use. He was a leading spirit in all lines of progress.

Among his many achievements which entitle him to rank as the first citizen of Rushville and Rush county are:

1. He located Rushville.
2. He named the Town.
3. He built the first house in the Town.
4. He gave land for the site of the Town.
5. He built the first school in Rushville.
6. He taught the first school in Rushville.
7. He built the first academy.
8. He built the first mill.
9. He secured the legislation authorizing the formation of the county.
10. He surveyed the County.
11. He named the County.

He passed away January 1, 1837, having achieved a splendid career.

The great service he rendered to the community stands unsurpassed to this day. In fact none has attempted to follow his example.

For during the period of almost a century that has passed since he wrought his deeds on earth, no one has given anything to Rushville or Rush county.

All honor to his name. May it remain graven upon the minds and hearts of this community as well as upon this memorial which we dedicate today.

VERY GOOD:—And God saw

1: 31.

The Laughlin Memorial

The thought that Dr. William B. Laughlin, first citizen of Rush county, gave himself as well as freely of this earthly possessions, that this commonwealth might come to its present high estate, was the principal one brought out by speakers at the unveiling of a tablet to his memory Sunday afternoon, also that Dr. Laughlin set a noble example of self sacrifice at the beginning of Rush county, and that it has never been emulated since.

There is much of this that Rush county people may take home for deliberate consideration. Although the father of fifteen children, Dr. Laughlin apparently had the welfare of Rush county first in his heart. He gave 25 acres as the nucleus of

And Is Happening to Rushville People Every Week

The case told below is not an uncommon thing. The same occurs frequently and will continue to happen as long as folks have kidneys and overtax the kidneys.

Wm. Ash, 511 N. Sexton St., Rushville, says: "I can say a good word for Doan's Kidney Pills for I have used them several times when my back has been lame and sore. My kidneys were weak and felt dull and heavy and the secretions were too free in passage. I used a box of Doan's Kidney Pills which I purchased at Johnson & Company's Drug Store and they completely relieved me of the trouble. Another member of my family has also used Doan's and has found them very satisfactory."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Ash had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—(Advertisement.)

a site for the county seat and he was the leader in building up the home, church and school, as well as the state, for it was his influence that caused Rush county to be organized.

Dr. Laughlin's life forms a splendid example that may be followed here and now. Although first in our community, he did not live a life that indicated he was out to get all that he could. He did not believe that he should receive and never give. His philosophy was that he should put back into the community more than he took out.

These are the kind of lives we need today—the unselfish kind that are willing to give, that do not feel they are entitled to all of the fruits of the land, that do not think that they should have all of the profit that the business will stand. The present age, as did that age, needs men who will stand before the community as a living example of unselfishness.

If the tribute to Dr. Laughlin's memory awakens some citizens to their responsibility, it will not have been in vain.

The Challenge to All

A worse menace than that for which we want to war now confronts us at home—

Indifference to law, the daily making of thieves and murderers, the breaking down of our social structure, license not liberty, indulgence not economy, carelessness not security.

Every young woman in war time, with tremendous zeal, helped the struggle. Her patriotism is needed even more than then.

Millions were subscribed by our business men to win the war. Long hours of work were given with $1 a year as the sole monetary reward for the most intense service. But we are now menaced at home, and a like devotion and a like labor are needed if life is to be at all worth living. The law of the jungle is replacing the laws of sanity and reason. The health, the morals, the very life and liberty of all are at stake.

Real patriotism is sincere service for the good of our country, which means service to fellow citizens more than to ourselves.

Every man and woman of influence in this country, for sheer safety's sake, must enlist their greatest efforts to uphold the law and solve the vexing problem.

Our people gave up thousands and millions to help Europe. Will they give up "a drink" for America? Society young women and matrons who see no wrong in a glass of wine or a cocktail ought to see that while the Eighteenth Amendment stands in our Constitution they are paying too great a price for the privilege of any alcoholic beverage. This is a time for the practice of true patriotism, to uphold our vital laws, to make sacrifices if need before the good of all.

It is the duty of every one to know the extent of the law's violations now and the pernicious effects and to give every ounce of energy to help save America from itself.

It also has been announced that the motion pictures of the log rolling held at the state camp July 4, at Lebanon, will be shown here at the Princess October 2, and several of the local members are in the picture.

If people would not say, what they say, for the want of something better to say, how much better this world would be.

From The Daily Republican Thursday, Sept. 24, 1908

Robert Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Anderson, who live south of this city, was slightly injured late Wednesday afternoon, when he collided with Pinnell & Tompkins lumber wagon. He was riding a bicycle and was unable to stop when the wagon turned the corner of First and Perkins street. The front wheel of the wagon passed over his leg but the injury was an inconsequential one.

At the convention held this morning at Connersville by the Republicans of the senatorial district, composed of Rushville, Henry and Hancock counties, E. D. Moore of Connersville was nominated to succeed Elmer Binford, who was forced to withdraw from the race on account of ill health.

Will Frazee and W. J. Henley yesterday closed a deal for the sale of their farm of 308 acres east of this city. The farm was sold to John M. Ashcraft of Hancock county, who takes possession January 1. The consideration was $31,288, an average price of over $100 per acre.

In backing a delivery horse to the curbing this forenoon, Derby Green, delivery man on the L. O. Broadway wagon, lost control of the fractious animal and before he could prevent it, the horse had backed the wagon up on the sidewalk and the rear wheels crashed through the plate glass display window. Later, in attempting to back the same horse at the Graham school building, the wagon was run against a tree and up on the steps on the south entrance.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Lois Dawson to Mr. Ray Reeves to occur on October 8.

The program committee of the Wednesday Evening club held a meeting last night in B. F. Miller's law office and completed a very attractive program for the coming year.

Miss Anna Morris has returned to her home in Chicago after spending the summer with her sister, Mrs. Laura Wolverton.

Norm Norris went to Cincinnati to day where he negotiated for a set of new fixtures for his barber shop. George Aultman, rural route carrier, is off on a fifteen day's vacation. His son, Houston Aultman, is substituting for him. He will visit his old Ohio home and friends the latter part of next week.

Will Brann, formerly of this city is playing an end position on the Greenfield National football team. The high school football team is

Giants Have Games At Cincinnati Today And Tuesday And Victories Will Clinch It

EVEN BREAK ALL THEY NEED

League Officials And Commission Will Meet Tuesday To Arrange For World's Series

By HENRY L. FARRELL (U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, Sept. 24.—With the end of a very hard road they have been pounding all through the season in sight, the New York Giants have two chances today and tomorrow, to grab the few points that will virtually clinch the National League pennant.

With a lead of four games, the worlds champions of 1921 and 1922 will engage in a pair of games with the Reds in Cincinnati and if the New Yorkers show their established ability to do their best when it is most needed, they will leave the Ohio city with the pennant.

As it now stands, the Giants have to win only one half of their remaining games to cop the pennant even if the Reds should not suffer a defeat in their remaining six games.

If the Giants take both games from the Reds, they can not lose the pennant but if the Reds should pop out with one of their winning fits, the McGraw clan will be in a most serious situation.

While eight games remain on the schedule for the Giants, it is possible they will have to play only seven of them. One game is a postponed game with the St. Louis Cardinals and unless it becomes of vital importance in deciding the pennant, it is likely that the game will be cancelled.

Officials of the two leagues and the commission will meet tomorrow "some place in the east" to make arrangements for the series. The opening date, the scene of the first game and the scale of prices will be decided upon.

While there has been much demand for lower prices and some change in the method of selling tickets, it is unlikely that the magnates will agree to charge any less than last year and it is probable that the same system will be followed in selling the tickets.

Many complaints were voiced last season over the ticket arrangement which forced anyone desirous of a bet for the games in which the Giants or the Yankees were acting as the home club or six tickets for the whole series.

New Yorkers found it possible to form clubs and buy a set of the tickets, but visitors in the city who had only two or three days in which they could see the games experienced trouble in disposing of their extra tickets.

While the Giants are fighting it out to the end, the Yankees are taking it easy and pointing for the series. Miller Huggins, manager of the American League champions has advanced so far with his plans that he has announced tentatively that Sam Jones, the ace of the team, will pitch the first game.

Qualifying Rounds For Golf Championship Opens at Pelham, N. Y.

Pelham County Club, Pelham N. Y. Sept. 24.—America's best professional golfers start the qualifying round for the championship of the professional golfers association here today. Sixty-four players from all sections of the country are playing in the tournament. They are the survivors of the sectional qualifying rounds which were held this year.

Bobby Cruikshank who lost the open championship to Bobby Jones in a playoff for the title is the only prominent player entered in the championship. He failed to qualify when he had a bad off day during the trials.

The qualifying rounds today will be over 36 holes and will be started with a match between Gene Sarazen, the defending champion and Lloyd Gullickson of Columbus, Ohio. Fair weather prevailed this morning but the course was soft after a three days rain.

Uncle Sam Shares Fight Purse

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Sept. 24.—Many opportunities may be presented for Jack Dempsey to resume work late this fall and during the winter, but there is little chance that he will accept any offers to fight again until next year.

Dempsey, no doubt, is willing to fight semi-monthly if business should become that good, but there is a little question of economics that would make it highly unprofitable for him to work too much.

Some time ago several promoters went after Jack Kearns to sign Dempsey for a match with Harry Greb, the middleweight champion, for a late outdoor or an early indoor show, and Kearns refused to consider any purse.

Kearns said that Dempsey had earned all he was allowed to this year and he pointed out that the firm had reached the limit allowed by the law in his class and if they exceeded it they would have to pay about 60 percent of the purse money to the government in taxes.

Under the present conditions, Dempsey gets an awful soaking by the revenue department every time he puts on the gloves. It sounds like a pipe to hear of Dempsey getting $200,000, $350,000 and $500,000 for a fight, but if the fans could see what is left for him when he is through splitting up with Kearns and the government, they would not be howling for congressional action to cut down the money that he is earning.

Out of a $300,000 purse, Dempsey has just about $100,000 for himself when he gets through whacking out the other ends of the money. Of course, $100,000 is not to be sneezed at, but it is not $300,000. The money that a heavyweight champion gets for the actual defense of his title is rather trivial, however, compared to the receipts from other sources of revenue that are opened by possession of the title.

It is understood that Dempsey's revenue averaged from $3,500 to $5,000 per week for three years. He earned a lot of money on the stage, in the movies and for the use of his name for advertising purposes.

Babe Ruth, it is said, got close to $10,000 royalties last year from a manufacturing firm who sold Babe Ruth caps. He got almost as much from the sale of suspenders, belts and baseball uniforms bearing his name and from the literary masterpieces turned out under his signature.

Dempsey's revenue from the same sources must have been much more, because the heavyweight champion is worth more in advertising even than the clout title of baseball.

Firpo, it is understood, made a half million dollars in seven months when he was fighting his way up to a championship bout with Dempsey. The South American, however, got practically every cent of his earnings for himself, however, as he has no manager. Dempsey and Kearns, it has been said, work fifty-fifty on everything.

Dempsey, however, should give Kearns a big split, as he would not have earned as much if he had been taking it all if he had have such a shrewd manager.

Kearns not only made the big purses possible for Dempsey, but he increased the scale of wages for every boxer in every division.

"Jack Kearns is the greatest manager that ever lived," Johnny Kilbane, the former featherweight champion, said at Shelby, before the Dempsey-Gibbons fight. "If he had not been persistent enough and game enough to brave criticism and force the promoters to give him real money, champions and the rest of the boxers would still be working for pork-and-bean wages. He argued that the fighters made the show and that they were entitled to make at least as much as the promoters and he got away with it."

Kilbane was crafty enough to do his own managing and Johnny Dundee, the present featherweight champion, has also handled himself for several years. It is argued that Dundee would have made much more money if he had someone to handle his affairs with a little more push.

WINS A SHUTOUT CONTEST

The Falmouth baseball team succumbed here Sunday afternoon before the Rushville club, which registered another shutout victory, winning 7 to 0.

The visiting team had several college stars in their line-up, but they could not bunch hits off of Yazel to put across runs, and the local players managed to get in several rallies and soon had the score piled up to 7 tallies. Rees pitched a good game for Falmouth.

The local club will play here again next Sunday and is scheduled to meet the New Palestine aggregation, which includes several fast players from Indianapolis.

WARNS AGAINST ANY ASSEMBLAGE

five leading attorneys of Oklahoma whom he had asked for opinions on whether a meeting would be legal.

All of the attorneys agreed that the legislature had the right to convene without a call from the governor or any outside authority.

The governor has taken up "the story of Tulsa" which his chief advisor, Aldrich Blake, started before leaving the capital on a vacation. Walton made public the testimony of J. M. Smithman, a negro who was whipped by a masked mob because he "had registered negro voters as Democrats". Smithman testified that members of the mob cut off his right ear and attempted to force him to eat it.

Although the executive denied that right of writ of habeas corpus was suspended in any section of the state except Tulsa, he made public a law passed by congress in 1870 which he said set a precedent for the suspension of the writ and contended that it upheld his action in Tulsa.

The governor said this section four of the act known as the "Ku Klux Klan law" provided that the president might suspend the right of writ of habeas corpus "whenever in any state or part of any state, unlawful combinations shall be organized and armed and become so numerous and powerful as to be able by violence to either overthrow or set at defiance the constituted authorities are in conspiracy with or shall connive with the unlawful purpose of such powerful and armed combinations."

TO PLAY IN BROOKLYN

Chicago, Sept. 24.—A movement for an Army-Notre Dame football game here this fall collapsed today with a statement that the Army and Notre Dame would play in Brooklyn on October 13. Edwin N. Hurley, former head of the Shipping Board who launched the movement, Saturday dispatched a letter to Secretary of War Weeks asking him to permit the West Pointers to Chicago.

FINAL PRACTICE IS HELD

Arlington Athletic Club Prepares For First Game Next Sunday

The Arlington Athletic Club held their final practice Sunday at the athletic field in Arlington, where they ran signals for two hours in preparation for their opening game next Sunday at Arlington with the Southpaw Club of Indianapolis, formerly the Marion Rambler team. These two teams played a 7 to 7 tie last year.

Arlington is not in as good condition as they should be, but they hope to be able to win Sunday's game. The probable line-up will be as follows: Thomas Wilcoxin, Uppike and Alsop, guards; Captain Room and Kemp at tackles; Wilson and Winslow at ends; Woodruff, quarterback; Northam and Trischman at halves and Wickler at full, with Tony Wilcoxin, Lowell Headlee and Kenneth Wilcoxin held in reserve.

AMUSEMENTS

Mae Murray in "Jazzmania"

"Jazzmania" is the title of the latest photoplay in which Robert Z. Leonard will present Mae Murray, and in it the popular star has more opportunities for histrionic and costume display than has yet fallen to her lot in the pictures she has made. The new Metro photoplay is scheduled for presentation today and Tuesday at the Princess.

Miss Murray's new picture is partly a costume play. The star is seen as the Queen of a Balkan kingdom which is beset by enemies. A revolution is impending; and she flees to America. Her love of novelty makes her an ardent lover of jazz; and when a former subject advises her to return to her country to rescue the women and children who are being mistreated, she decides to go back. She rescues the kingdom and turns it into a republic, where jazz keeps Madame President and her subjects in good humor.

Of course there is a love story involved—more than one, as a matter of fact. With such a quartet of handsome actors as Rod La Rocque, Robert Frazer, Edward Burns and Jean Hersholt, Miss Murray will make more than one feminine heart beat with envy. And all are exceptionally fine actors, too.

The photoplay is based on a story by Edmund Goulding. It was produced by Tiffany Productions, Inc., of which Robert Z. Leonard is Director.

Women to attract must Radiate Health!
Beauty is the magnet which draws all eyes and back of beauty—Health—working silently—Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—this ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women glow with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not there. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good Health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S. since 1894 has been ridding the system of liverwheels—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and skin eruptions—burning red blood cells—giving women to be attractive by purifying blood. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks—scientifically prepared and perfected. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is a sure economical way to purchase the large size bottle.

"The Bohemian Girl," Mystic

Spectacular moments abound in "The Bohemian Girl," the Harley-Knoles production which comes to the Mystic today and Tuesday with a cast of notables, comprising Ellen Terry, Ivor Novello, Gladys Cooper, Constance Collier, C. Aubrey Smith and a hundred others. The production is one of unusual magnitude.

Some of the "big scenes" are a gypsy encampment, a hunt breakfast in a superb old castle, a gorgeous costume ball, a picturesque European village fair and a score of other striking scenes. These have been reproduced with uncommon skill and fidelity to detail, and especially in the case of the castle scenes, an air of magnificent color and movement.

The story is a fascinating one and lends itself to atmospheric staging, as found in the gypsy scenes and the village fair. It concerns Arline daughter of an Austrian noble, who as a child is lured from her home by the gypsies to avenger a a fancied slight. One of their band is Thaddeus, a Polish youth who has been protected by the gypsies from the pursuing Austrian soldiers. As the years pass Thaddeus and Arline learn to love, yet the girl cannot believe that she is like all the rest, a gypsy, nor can she think of Thaddeus as belonging to the darkskinned tribe who love and fear their Queen.

It is Arline's dream or vision of a different life that comes upon the seen in a beautiful picture of the castle ball. Later this becomes a reality to her when she is restored to her father and her rightful place.

"The Bohemian Girl" is a picturization of Balfe's famous old opera, in which such deathless airs as "I Dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls" and "The Heart Bowed Down" occur.

Long Lines

It's the long line that makes one look thin. The line may be in the material itself—such as a stripe—or it may be in the style—a long panel, for instance. Large figures should be avoided. Stripes are taboo.

AMERICAN BAR, JAZZ, GUM, SODA, FLIVVER AT L. OF N. ASSEMBLY

By HENRY WOOD
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Geneva, Sept. 24—American influence is playing a very important part in the fourth assembly of the League of Nations in session here.

An American bar is now a fixture of the convention hall in which the League sessions are held.

Despite the fact that this structure—known as the Hall of the Reformation—was erected in memory of the 400th anniversary of Calvin, and despite the fact that Calvin would unquestionably have frowned on Martini cocktails and similar mixtures, the League has found existence impossible without an American bar.

Whenever the President perceives that a quorum is not present, all he has to do as to give the high sign to an usher and the usher goes to the American bar in the adjoining corridor and requests enough of the Leaguers to come back to permit the pacification of the world to continue.

If the League ever actually succeeds in bringing about disarmament it is almost certain that the original agreement between the Leaguers will have been arrived at over an American cocktail in the American bar of Calvin's memorial hall, and thus American influence will again have scored an international triumph in the attainment of universal peace.

The success of the American bar at the assembly hall naturally resulted in its being copied by all the leading hotels in Geneva, at which the League delegations stop. Virtually the only League place where an American bar has not yet been installed is at the Secretariat, which is still obliged to worry along with a mere tea room.

All Geneva dancing places will also boast this year of real American jazz bands, and an American dancing couple has been imported especially to bring the Geneva dancers up-to-date on the "boogie-woogie" roll.

American influence will go even farther than this, however, for the reason that Switzerland is one of the European countries where American chewing gum, which came with the war and the American Army, has struck faster than any place else.

Similarly, Geneva is one of the few European centers where the American soda water fountain has found a permanent hold, and with the increasing number of women delegates to the Assembly, it is figured that these soda water fountains will play the same important role in the feminine deliberations of the League that the American bar plays in those of the masculine section.

Finally, all League transportation is conducted in Ford cars. There are some fifty-two nations that check up every cent of League expenditure and the reduction of the automobile item left the League no choice but tin lizzies.
